Mexican Feeder Cattle Weekly Import Summary:

USDA announced risk-based port re-openings for cattle, bison, and equines from Mexico beginning as early as July 7, 2025. View details...

Alberta Beef Producers... Calgary AB:

Alberta direct cattle sales this week have seen light trade develop with dressed sales ranging from $496.00-500.00/cwt delivered, $2.00/cwt lower than last week. Cattle that traded were being scheduled anywhere from late July to mid August delivery. US packer interest on the Western Canadian fed market was quiet this week. For the most part all June contract cattle have been cleaned up and packers are pulling very hard on July contracts. At least one western Canadian packer will work this Saturday to make up for the Tuesday holiday.

An investment in futures contracts is speculative, involves a high degree of risk and is suitable only for persons who can assume the risk of loss in excess of their margin deposits. You should carefully consider whether futures trading is appropriate for you in light of your investment experience, trading objectives, financial resources and other relevant circumstances. PAST PERFORMANCE IS NOT NECESSARILY INDICATIVE OF FUTURE RESULTS.

Fed Cattle:

USDA reported on Thursday afternoon that negotiated cash trade has been limited on moderate demand in all feeding regions, with a few purchases in Kansas at 225.00, but not enough for a market test. The last established market in Kansas was Wednesday at 224.00. The last established market in the Texas Panhandle was Wednesday at 224.00. The last established market in Nebraska was Wednesday with live purchases 230.00-232.00 and dressed purchases at 368.00. The last established live market in the Western Cornbelt was Wednesday from 230.00-233.00. The last established dressed market in the Western Cornbelt was last week from 368.00-370.00.

USDA National Retail Beef Report:

National Summary of Advertised Prices for Beef at Major Retail Supermarket Outlets

7/4/25, 2:51 PM

Weekly Market Summary

This week in beef retail the Feature Rate increased by 2.1 percent and the Activity Index decreased by 5.2 percent. Compared to last week, items from the chuck, sirloin, other/misc., and variety meat sections showed a decrease in ad space, while items from the brisket, loin, round, and deli sections showed an increase. The loin section change was due to a sharp increase in advertising for T-bone steaks approaching the 4th of July holiday. Ground beef items also remained steady compared to last week, while items from the rib had a sharp increase this week with bone in and boneless ribeye steaks and short ribs being the largest contributing factors. The most heavily advertised item this week were ground beef patties. Ground beef patties averaged $6.11/lb, a decrease of $0.57/lb compared to the same week last year.

NATIONAL

Metric	Current Week (CW)	Previous Week (PW)	Previous Year (PY)
Total Outlets	24,824	24,824
Activity Index	100,970	106,593
Feature Rate (%)	94.4%	92.3%

Explanatory Notes:

Activity Index: A measure of the absolute frequency of feature activity equal to the total number of stores for each advertised item, e.g., a retailer with 100 outlets featuring 3 items has an activity index of 300.

Feature Rate: The amount of sampled stores advertising any reported item during the current week, expressed as a 'percentage of the total sample.

3 Year Bullish/Bearish Consensus Charts from SentimenTrader:

The theory behind the "Bullish/Bearish Consensus" indicator is when the public reaches a consensus, they are usually wrong:

• They get too bullish after prices have risen and too bearish after they have already fallen.

Because of this tendency, there are often extremes in opinion right before major changes in trend:

- When the public reaches a bullish extreme, i.e., a great majority thinks prices will keep rising, then prices often decline instead.
- And when they become too bearish, then prices tend to rise.

So when Public Opinion moves above the red dotted line in the chart, it means that compared to other readings over the past year, you're seeing excessive optimism. You also want to look at the absolute level of Opinion, too - if it's at 90%, then there's no question we're seeing an historic level of bullish opinion. Watch for readings above 80% (or especially 90%) to spot those dangerous times when the public is overly enthusiastic about a commodity.

Conversely, when Public Opinion moves below the green dotted line, then the public is excessively pessimistic about the commodity's prospects for further gains compared to their opinion over the past year. Looking for absolute readings under 20% (or especially 10%) often indicates an upturn in the market.

S&P 500 Index, Nasdaq Composite hit record highs for second straight week

^ Contents

Major U.S. stock indexes finished the holiday-shortened week higher. Smaller-cap indexes performed best, with the S&P MidCap 400 and Russell 2000 indexes climbing 2.85% and 3.52%, respectively, followed by the Dow Jones Industrial Average, which advanced 2.30%. The S&P 500 Index and Nasdaq Composite both closed at all-time highs for the second week in a row. U.S. markets closed early Thursday and were closed Friday in observance of the Independence Day holiday, and T. Rowe Price traders noted that the week included several fairly quiet trading sessions heading into the long weekend.

Much of the focus during the week centered around the progress of the Trump administration's reconciliation bill, which was narrowly passed by the Senate on Tuesday and by the House of Representatives on Thursday afternoon. Trade-related headlines also continued to flow during the week, with President Donald Trump announcing a trade deal with Vietnam on Wednesday and making comments around negotiations with several other trade partners ahead of the upcoming July 9 tariff deadline, when the 90-day pause on reciprocal tariffs is expected to end.

Job growth remains resilient in June

On the economic data front, the Labor Department reported that the U.S. economy added 147,000 jobs in June, ahead of economists' estimates and up from May's upwardly revised reading of 144,000. The unemployment rate ticked lower to 4.1%, while average hourly earnings grew 0.2% month over month.

The report came as a welcome surprise following Wednesday's weaker-than-expected data from payroll processing firm ADP, which showed private payrolls contracted by 33,000 in June against estimates for a gain of around 115,000. This was the first negative reading since March 2023 and was driven by "a hesitancy to hire and a reluctance to replace departing workers," according to Nela Richardson, chief economist at ADP.

Elsewhere, the Labor Department reported on Tuesday that job openings rose to 7.8 million in May, up from April's reading of 7.4 million and the highest level since November. Accommodation and food services had the largest increase in openings, followed by finance and insurance. Initial jobless claims for the week ended June 28 also came in better than expected at 233,000, down 4,000 from the prior week's revised level.

The Pacific Northwest saw drought and dryness worsen again, this time in Washington and Idaho. The Rockies worsened too (Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Colorado). Meanwhile, New Mexico and West Texas saw improvements with a wet start to monsoon season. Conditions also improved in the Central Plains and Florida. For the Northern Plains, Midwest, Alaska, and Hawaii, this week brought a mix of improvements and degradations.

Canadian 90-Day Percent of Average Precipitation:

Looking ahead...

The National Weather Service is forecasting a few areas of rainfall exceeding 1 inch for the period through the evening of Monday, July 7. Localized 1-inch or greater totals are possible in locations in New Mexico, northwest Texas, central and eastern Oklahoma, northern Kansas and Nebraska into the Upper Midwest and northern Great Plains, western Montana, and the Florida Peninsula, perhaps extending to the Southeast's Atlantic coastline as a weather disturbance moves through. Heavy rain amounts exceeding 3 inches are forecast in portions of the Florida Peninsula, especially along much of its Gulf coast. Mostly dry weather is expected from the Intermountain West to the Pacific Ocean and across much of south Texas, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and the southern Mid-Atlantic.

For July 8-12, the National Weather Service forecast strongly favors warmer-than-normal temperatures in the western Contiguous U.S., especially west of the Continental Divide. Warmer-than-normal temperatures are also favored in the eastern U.S., especially from Virginia southward to Florida. Near- or below-normal temperatures are favored for parts of the southern and central Great Plains and western portions of the Midwest. Below-normal precipitation is favored from northern Arizona across Utah, Nevada, southern Idaho, much of Oregon and southwest Washington. Above-normal precipitation is slightly favored in southern Arizona and southern and eastern New Mexico eastward across much of the Contiguous U.S.
